11. The researcher would like to express her gratitude to all students who enthusiastically participated in this study. Their participation was instrumental in the success of this undergraduate thesis.
12. The researcher would like to express gratitude to two best friends (Asnini Junita Zai and Benedikta Gulo) for their companionship, enthusiasm, and encouragement, whether in the form of discussion, motivation, or entertainment. Without the support of these best friends, the researcher academic journey would not have been as successful as it has been.
13. Not to forget, the researcher would also like to express gratitude to herself for persevering through a long process, overcoming fatigue, doubts, and various challenges. Thanks for continuing to fight, not giving up, and believing that every small step will lead to great results. May this achievement serve as a reminder that effort, prayer, and faith never betray the results.

All forms of kindness, assistance, encouragement, advice, and support provided throughout the process of writing this thesis until the final stage of study are rewarded by God with blessings and kindness that are multiplied. The author is fully aware that this thesis still has limitations and has not yet achieved perfection. Therefore, the researcher sincerely hopes for constructive criticism and positive feedback from various parties to facilitate improvements in the future.
